Materials & Construction

Solaris Atria is handcrafted from premium copper and finished in polished 18K gold plating, creating a refined architectural structure designed for long-term durability and visual permanence.

Its crystal shade incorporates A+ grade lead-free crystal elements individually assembled and precisely aligned to maximise clarity, light transmission, and controlled brilliance. The carefully engineered crystal arrangement softens illumination while preserving visual definition, creating an ambient glow that enhances the surrounding architecture without overwhelming the space.

Inspired by the classical atrium — a space historically associated with light, proportion, and openness — Solaris Atria functions as both illumination and architectural sculpture, bringing vertical emphasis and material richness into contemporary luxury interiors.
